

BLACKMAILERS.

SET A TRAP FOR HIM.

Young Whitlock, However, Declined to Walk Into It.

Now Miss Brower Is Suing Him on a Serious Charge.

She Declares He Said He Loved and Promised to Marry Her.

The examination in the case of Edward Tryon Whitlock, who is accused of being a blackmailer, was held this morning at the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, by Judge Paul De Fere, Justice of the Peace, who presided over the trial. Whitlock, who lives at 8 Ashland place, is reported to have inherited considerable money. Miss Brower, who is about twenty-four years old, tall and dark, is the mother of a fine-looking girl.

According to the testimony of Whitlock and Miss Brower were regular students at the Hanson Place M. E. Church. One Sunday night in Dec., 1889, the pastor preached a sermon on sociability, and urged his hearers to shake hands with one another after the services and become acquainted with the members of the church. After the services that night Whitlock and Miss Brower met in the lobby and shook hands. They met each other on the street the following day and the next Sunday he accompanied her home.

They became very friendly, and Miss Brower says that on March 16, 1890, Whitlock declared his love and promised to marry her.

On May 10, 1890, he went off on a cruise on the school ship St. Mary's, and during his absence he wrote several letters to Miss Brower.

Whitlock returned in October and returned his visits soon after that, she declares, he succeeded in overcoming her scruples.

In March, 1891, she says her mother discovered her condition and visited Assistant Pastor John J. Faust and told the facts before him. The result of the conference was that a scheme was evolved to get Whitlock to marry the girl.

According to the plan Miss Brower invited Whitlock to call upon her. Mr. Faust arrived first and remained in a back room, and the young man arrived. While the couple were in the parlor the girl's mother and the minister arrived.

"I am here because of the unfortunate circumstances involved in your acquaintance with Mr. Whitlock," said the minister. "I am here because of the unfortunate circumstances involved in your acquaintance with Mr. Whitlock."

Whitlock, who both sides agree had up to this time been in ignorance of the girl's condition, was greatly surprised, and asked for an explanation. He was fully informed, and was urged to marry the girl at once.

Whitlock said he was too confused and pleaded for time to consult his mother. The clergyman, he says, barred his passage, and refused his request to marry the girl.

The clergyman denies that he used force, but Whitlock says he had to escape by another door.

The case was concluded. Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

A BULLET STOPPED HIM.

Cullen Tried to Escape While on the Way to Jail.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., Sept. 21.—Shortly before 11 o'clock this morning Thomas Cullen, nineteen years of age, of 37 East Thirty-sixth street, New York, attempted to escape from the Queens County Jail.

Cullen, on the night of Aug. 3, with some companions, visited Bowery Bay Beach, and on the way home got into a trolley car on the Broadway line, and tried to escape from the car.

He was followed by a trolley car, and when the trolley car was at the corner of Broadway and 12th street, Cullen was seen by the driver, who stopped the car and took him to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

He was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station, and when he was taken to the police station, he was taken to the police station.

PREFERS THE STATE COURT.

Philip Wants that Ives Syndicate Suit Be Transferred.

The affairs of the late Henry S. Ives, once the quondam Napoleon of finance, were again aired in the United States Court, Brooklyn, this morning through a motion made by Lawyer Edward M. Grout, of Grout, De Fere & Mayer, in behalf of Charles F. Phillips, the broker, to have his suit for a division of the profits of the Ives syndicate transferred back to the State Court.

The story has been told of how Phillips, in March, 1892, formed a partnership with Ives, M. W. Bore, G. W. Striker, W. C. Boone, Charles Graham, G. W. Saul and H. D. Morehead, the object of which was to reorganize corporations.

As soon as the suit was commenced Phillips says a conspiracy was hatched to deprive him of his liberty, and on or three days ago he was arrested in Philadelphia, charged with fraud, and then came back.

The original suit was brought in the State courts, but the defendants, Morehead and his associates, refused to pay the matter transferred to the United States Court, on that ground that certain securities were involved in the action.

Since that time before Federal Judge Benedict this morning that the case belonged properly to the State Court.

The action involves securities valued at $100,000. Judge Benedict said he would at once determine whether the case was within the jurisdiction of the State Court.

Phillips also says that the defendants have become acquainted with the members of the church, and he says in the complaint, got control of the securities by pretending to be genuine them.

OBLIGING MR. BANSANDO.

Held a Baby for a Pretty Young Mother Who Never Came Back.

A bright-looking girl baby, about one month old, was placed in the care of the City Nurse, in Brooklyn, this morning, and the police are trying to discover the identity of the mother.

While Ernest Bansando, of 34 First place, was watching the parade of the Italian Societies in front of the City Hall, yesterday afternoon, a pretty brunette, about twenty years old, stepped up to him and asked him to marry her.

"Won't you please hold my baby for a few minutes? I have got to call upon the doctor," she said, and the girl baby was placed in the care of the City Nurse.

The girl was delighted to assist the young mother, and he took the child in his arms and held it for some time before he began to grow anxious for the mother to return.

This morning the girl was found in the crowd dispersed. Finally, after he had dangled the child for about an hour, he was taken to the police station.

Whitlock, who both sides agree had up to this time been in ignorance of the girl's condition, was greatly surprised, and asked for an explanation. He was fully informed, and was urged to marry the girl at once.

Whitlock said he was too confused and pleaded for time to consult his mother. The clergyman, he says, barred his passage, and refused his request to marry the girl.

The clergyman denies that he used force, but Whitlock says he had to escape by another door.

The case was concluded. Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

Whitlock's story will be heard when the examination is resumed Sept. 29.

MAY PROVE DOUBLE MURDER.

One Unknown Italian Dead and His Companion Dying.

Both Found Alongside a Railroad Track Near Setauket.

PORT JEFFERSON, L. I., Sept. 21.—Word was received here to-day that two Italians, one dead and the other dying, had been discovered this morning near the Setauket depot. All the indications so far as known seem to point to a double murder.

It is supposed that the men have been employed heretofore on the new line of the road. Some kind of a quarrel is believed to have occurred among the Italians of the colony near here. The coroner's inquest is being held at Setauket, and the body of the dead man is now at Setauket conducting an investigation.

Since most of the Italians at work on the new railroad are known only by numbers, it may be impossible to obtain the names.

Setauket is about two miles from here. The bodies of the men were recovered by the engineer of the first train on the Long Island Railroad going west. He reported the affair at the Setauket depot and word was immediately sent to the coroner.

The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

Setauket worked over him and succeeded in restoring him to consciousness. The man could not tell how he found the bodies. The body of the dead man was about thirty feet from the railroad track. His head was crushed and his face was badly bruised. The body of the other man was lying on the opposite side of the track, about six feet from where the body of the dead man was found.

SPORTING MISCELLANY.

Fifteen events are on the programme for the fifty-third annual games of the New York Athletic Club at Forest Hills and to-morrow, not including the two-mile steeplechase and the ten-mile run, which are A. A. U. championships. Of the club games all but the 300-yard run, one-fifth mile hurdle race and one mile race are handicaps. The penalties are distributed so judiciously that record time is by no means impossible, conditions favoring. The games will be started at 2 P. M. Trains will leave the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street station of the Third Avenue "L" road, by special arrangement, at 12:45, 1, 1:45, 2:45 and 3:45, returning trains will leave Madison Square frequently as required. The railroad fare will include stage hire.

The postponed games of the National Athletic Club will be held to-morrow at Ridgecroft. Interesting exhibition races have been added to the regular competitions.

Attractive prizes are offered for the fourth race meet of the Crescent Wheelmen, to be held at Plainfield, Sept. 22. The prizes are: One-mile run, one-mile scratch, class B; one-mile handicap, class A; one-mile scratch, class B; one-mile handicap, class B. Entries close to-morrow with C. E. Feil, Plainfield, N. J.

The East Orange Cycloists will hold the annual twenty-five-mile club race to-morrow.

The first professional football game of the season at the Polo Grounds will be played to-morrow between the New Yorks and the Longfellow Club of Brooklyn. The game will be played at 2 P. M.

The New York team has been practicing at the Polo Grounds all week, and even the lively action of Wednesday did not serve to keep them from the practice. The team has been perfecting their team work materially under the coaching of Capt. Frank Smith.

The prospects for a rattling good game are good. Upward of twenty-five stables have signified their intention of taking part in the racing, and this is an assurance that the racing will be interesting.

"Father Bill" Daly must have an uncommonly high opinion of turfmen, if he thought he could boost prices on the New York market. He was crowded quickly to the ground, and left Daly all alone with his little auction.

The prospects for a rattling good game are good. Upward of twenty-five stables have signified their intention of taking part in the racing, and this is an assurance that the racing will be interesting.

It is bad enough to have to figure on uncertain horses, but when it comes to the New York market, it is a trial in which Louis fly beat Nanki Foo.

Robert J. the great pacing gelding, called to his record yesterday, but failed to make a mile in 2:02.3.

The Queens County Jockey Club asked the Jockey Club to allow a license last night, and on good authority, it is probable that the request was refused. It is probable that the request was refused.

The Jockey Club, it is said, has objected to the bookmakers doing business at the Maspeth track and will demand that they be driven out of the track. The Jockey Club, it is said, has objected to the bookmakers doing business at the Maspeth track and will demand that they be driven out of the track.

Foxhall Keene endeavored to have a race yesterday. The steward, who was John Hunter, objected, and the boy will have to remain on the track. Foxhall Keene endeavored to have a race yesterday. The steward, who was John Hunter, objected, and the boy will have to remain on the track.

Now or Never will be hard to beat from now on. The old fellow struggled hard, but was a trifle short.

J. K. You receive only half the face value of your ticket.

BASEBALL CHAT.

The Giants met defeat at Pittsburgh yesterday when victory was counted on by almost everybody. New York played a battle with the Pirates, and the Western tour after his almost superhuman efforts of the day before. In the midst of deprecatory comment urged by the importance of the defeat, little heed has been taken of the circumstances. The game was a hard-fought one, and the Giants were victorious.

At a meeting of the New England League, which was held at the League and Pawtucket was elected to